Takeaways

- 236 hospitals — largest territory
- NY–NJ metro alone: 109 hospitals

- NY 78, NJ 44, MA 37
- Highest HRRP pressure markets
- Academic systems ≠ low episode cost

What is Rainfall Territory 3 under CMS TEAM?

Territory 3 (Northeast) is the largest Rainfall TEAM region by hospital count: 236 of 721 active participants (32.7%). It covers New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Maine, the District of Columbia, West Virginia, and Virginia.

The New York–Newark–Jersey City, NY–NJ CBSA alone contains 109 TEAM hospitals — more than many entire Rainfall territories' mid-sized states combined. That single metropolitan market forces competing systems to share a fragmented post-acute landscape across two states.

Northeast markets also show elevated HRRP stress in Rainfall's national analysis (New Jersey leads states on share of hospital-condition pairs above ERR 1.0). TEAM attaches the full 30-day episode — not just the readmission event — so HRRP weakness is an early warning, not the whole bill.

Which networks are positioned to win in the Northeast?

Multi-hospital New Jersey systems (Hackensack Meridian, RWJBarnabas) and New York systems (Northwell and peer academic–community hybrids) can enforce discharge pathways across many TEAM CCNs. Brand prestige alone is not protective: several high–reputation Northeast AMCs appear in elevated HRRP cells for surgical conditions.

Boston’s academic cluster and Pennsylvania’s UPMC / Geisinger / Penn State footprints create different problems — strong inpatient quality infrastructure, but still needing explicit PAC contracts where Philadelphia and Pittsburgh hospitals were largely not selected into TEAM while smaller CBSAs were.

Deep dives: New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania state guides; national networks advantage article.

What should Northeast hospital leaders prioritize?

Treat the NY–NJ metro as one post–acute market even when licenses and Medicaid rules differ by state. Second, invest in goals-of-care and geriatric pathways for hip fracture and complex LEJR patients — Northeast age structure and institutional PAC norms make these episodes financially volatile. Third, use the HRRP analysis to triage service lines before Track risk hardens.
