- TN HRRP rate 50.9% slightly above national

Tennessee's TEAM mandate: Nashville dominance and multi-market reach

Tennessee has 30 hospitals mandated to participate in CMS TEAM across four CBSAs. The state's TEAM profile is defined by Nashville's concentration — 19 of 30 hospitals, or 63% of the state total — and by the outsized presence of HCA Healthcare's TriStar Health division, which operates the largest single-system cluster in the Nashville market. Tennessee's health system landscape reflects the industry's broader consolidation trends: three large systems (TriStar/HCA, Ascension Saint Thomas, and Vanderbilt University Medical Center) account for the majority of Nashville TEAM hospitals, while Memphis presents a more fragmented multi-system picture.

Tennessee's 50.9% HRRP penalty rate sits modestly above the 48.1% national average — not among the worst-performing states, but not a performance standout either. The state's health metrics, particularly in rural areas outside the mandated CBSAs, rank among the worst nationally on chronic disease prevalence and social determinants. The TEAM cohort, however, is concentrated in Nashville and Memphis — the state's most resourced markets — which partially insulates the TEAM population from the worst health disparities found in rural Tennessee.

TriStar Health: HCA's Tennessee TEAM footprint

TriStar Health — the HCA Healthcare division operating in the Nashville market — has the largest single-system TEAM exposure in Tennessee with seven mandated hospitals: TriStar Centennial Medical Center (flagship), TriStar Skyline, TriStar Summit, TriStar Stonecrest, TriStar Southern Hills, TriStar Hendersonville, and TriStar Horizon. TriStar Centennial is one of the largest hospitals in Tennessee by volume, performing high numbers of elective orthopedic procedures.

HCA Healthcare's experience with predecessor bundled payment programs — including BPCI Advanced — gives TriStar facilities institutional familiarity with episode cost management, target price analysis, and post-acute network optimization that many independent competitors lack. HCA operates national data analytics infrastructure that can identify episode cost drivers across its facility network, enabling TriStar to benchmark individual hospitals against system peers.

Ascension Saint Thomas — the Catholic health system's Tennessee presence — operates four TEAM hospitals in the Nashville market: Ascension Saint Thomas Hospital (Nashville flagship), Saint Thomas Rutherford (Murfreesboro), Saint Thomas Stones River (Woodbury), and the Highpoint Health–Sumner collaborative with Ascension. Ascension's national value-based care initiatives and its size (155+ hospitals nationally) provide data infrastructure and scale advantages similar to HCA, though its integration of the legacy Saint Thomas hospitals has been an ongoing organizational challenge.

Vanderbilt: the academic anchor

Vanderbilt University Medical Center — a nationally ranked academic medical center and the flagship of the Vanderbilt Health system — anchors the Nashville TEAM cohort from the academic medicine side. Vanderbilt Wilson County Hospital, a community affiliate, adds a suburban community hospital dimension. Vanderbilt's surgical programs in orthopedics, cardiac surgery, and neurosurgery (all TEAM-relevant procedure categories) are nationally recognized; its TEAM performance will be closely watched as a benchmark for what academic medicine can achieve under mandatory episode accountability.

Maury Regional Hospital (Columbia, TN) and Williamson Medical Center (Franklin, TN) represent independent community hospitals navigating TEAM without large-system resources. Franklin is one of Tennessee's fastest-growing suburban communities; Williamson Medical Center serves a high-income, commercially insured patient mix that may support favorable TEAM performance, though Medicare episode costs are the relevant variable rather than payer mix.

Memphis and the multi-state CBSA challenge

The Memphis, TN–MS–AR CBSA crosses three state lines, including six Tennessee hospitals, four Mississippi hospitals, and portions of western Arkansas. For TEAM management purposes, this multi-state market creates interesting post-acute coordination challenges: a patient discharged from Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis may appropriately place in a Mississippi SNF located in DeSoto County — a geographic detail that complicates care management follow-up and PCP coordination requirements.

Regional One Health — formerly Regional Medical Center (the MED), the Memphis area’s public Level I trauma center and academic affiliate of the University of Tennessee Health Science Center — is among the TEAM roster’s most structurally challenged participants. Its safety-net mission, high uninsured share, and complex trauma patient mix create the same dynamic as urban public hospitals in New York and New Jersey: TEAM risk adjustment partially accounts for complexity, but post-discharge coordination resources are constrained relative to the private system peers in the same CBSA.
